Join the Rainforest Alliance’s Follow the Frog Campaign

The Rainforest Alliance’s Follow the Frog campaign invites you to walk through September 26. The campaign encourages consumers to purchase products that have been responsibly produced and labeled as such by the Rainforest Alliance On-Market.

Joe Coffee

As a neighborhood-based, family-owned business founded in 2001, hospitality, quality, and responsibility have always defined Joe Coffee Company. But when we took the leap to roasting our own coffee in 2012, that idea of responsibility became a bigger question. We had to ask ourselves how to maintain a focus on coffee quality while behaving not only as a step in the coffee supply chain, but as responsible actors on a path of sustainability. It was through these questions and their answers that we got to know Joe Coffee.

An international nonprofit in operation for more than 30 years, the Rainforest Alliance works in nearly 50 countries worldwide to conserve the development and conservation of natural resources. To learn more and get involved, visit www.rainforestalliance.org.

Example Activations: Eden Project Frog Trail

The Eden Project, the largest indoor rainforest in the world, created a frog trail that visitors could follow to learn more about coffee, bananas, flowers, oil palm, chocolate and general trade.

Narrators/storytellers had conversations about the Rainforest Alliance, mainly explaining what the “green frog” seal means.

They also supported with several posters around the trail as well as multiple social media posts.

Approx. 26,000 visitors during campaign weeks, 10-24 September 2018
Example Activations: Tesco

Employee engagement event designed to educate and inform Tesco employees as to what the Rainforest Alliance is and does.

Over 100 participants were asked to answer true-or-false questions about the Rainforest Alliance to be entered to win a prize: Rainforest Alliance Certified goodies donated by Tesco.

Sample questions were:

- Rainforest Alliance certification is exclusively an environmental standard – FALSE
- Rainforest Alliance certification improves the livelihoods of farmers and workers in 60 countries around the world – TRUE
3. Consumer Activation
We designed, implemented, and managed a two-week Instagram Giveaway Contest featuring 15 posts that:

• explained the many ways that Rainforest Alliance’s work helps save water, mitigate CO₂ and fight against climate change, build soil health, promote clean air, empower farmers and indigenous communities, and prevent deforestation

• educated and encouraged followers to look for the Rainforest Alliance Certified seal and #FollowTheFrog as an easy, sustainable step to incorporate into their everyday purchasing choices

• Asked questions of the Instagram community, who were required to answer and “tag” two friends to enter the giveaway contest. What are their own sustainability choices and individual personal actions? What gives them hope for the future? Etc.

• Giveaway prize package included sustainably-sourced items donated by our partnering companies, as well as a zero-waste starter kit to support sustainability as a lifestyle.
Comment to enter GIVEAWAY ENTRY DAY 1: Did you know that tea is the second-most consumed beverage in the world after water? Smallholder farmers provide the bulk of the world’s tea, and the Rainforest Alliance has helped hundreds of thousands of farmers around the world produce it in a greener way. But many challenges make tea farming a difficult way of life. For instance, our planet’s tea-growing regions are undergoing weather changes, caused by climate change, increasing the likelihood of reduced yields and incomes.

Many rural households in tea landscapes also rely on charcoal and firewood to heat their homes and power their stoves, and tea factories use vast quantities of firewood for tea processing. Needless to say, the massive demand for firewood takes a toll on forests—and the burning of wood and charcoal isn’t good for humans, either.

That’s why the Rainforest Alliance, with support from the IKEA Foundation, is working with smallholder tea farmers in Kenya to switch to a natural form of renewable energy: no-smoke briquettes, which are made out of forestry and agricultural waste. These energy sources will help 50,000 farmers to save money (the briquettes are cheaper to purchase than wood and charcoal), cut carbon emissions, and create healthier homes for families—while preventing the loss of more than 80,000 trees over the length of the project.

An easy way to support clean air is to #FollowTheFrog to products that carry the Rainforest Alliance Certified “green frog” seal. But for people and nature to truly thrive in harmony, that should be just one of many actions. Our mindful, daily consumption practices can lead to even further positive environmental impacts.

GIVEAWAY ENTRY-QUESTION: What environmental and social progress gives you hope for the future? Tell us in the comments and tag two friends to enter!
We worked with 30 sustainable living “influencers” (with a following of at least 15k people each) that have extremely active and engaged communities of followers on Instagram to:

• educate their supporters about the Rainforest Alliance’s work
• look for the seal to #FollowTheFrog in their product choices.

Many influencers reinforced our message on Facebook, Twitter, and their own blogs with tens of thousands of monthly readers. Examples here.

Metrics

• Selected Influencers have a combined following of >3.2 million users
• Combined engagement for FTF posts:
  • 94,678 post likes, 992 comments, 3% engagement rate

Results

• 2x more followers on RA Instagram account post-campaign with few drop-offs, indicating the majority of new followers remained in our Alliance.
