

Brown-Throated Three-Toed Sloth
(Bradypus variegatus)

Sloths are among the slowest-moving animals on Earth. Instead of toes, their front and hind feet have three curved claws that allow them to easily hook onto tree branches and hang upside-down. The sloth is an arboreal animal, inhabiting the tropical forests of Central and South America. Protect the habitat of the brown-throated three-toed sloth, visit <http://www.rainforest-alliance.org/programs/aar>.