

Bald Headed Red Uakari (Cacajao rubicundus)

Possessing a red, hairless face and a shaggy off-white coat, the red uakari is a unique looking animal. Able to leap from tree branch to tree branch at distances exceeding 70 feet, the bald-headed red uakari is a powerful jumper and perfectly suited to life high up in the rainforest canopy. This unique primate is found exclusively in the Amazon river basin.

Protect the habitat of the bald-headed red uakari, visit <http://www.rainforest-alliance.org/programs/aar>.