

Yucatan White-Tailed Deer
(Odocoileus virginianus yucatanensis)

The Yucatan white-tailed deer is reddish-tan in color, with gray along its chest and white on its throat, inner thighs, abdomen, and underside of its tail. When threatened, they flip their white tail straight up to signal danger to others. Their range extends from northern South America all the way up to southern Canada. Protect the habitat of the Yucatan White-Tailed Deer , visit <http://www.rainforest-alliance.org/programs/aar>.